JULIANNE MOORE 12 THINGS SHE CAN'T LIVE WITHOUT

It's a shame Julianne Moore keeps racking up awards for her acting, because the interior design world would happily embrace her as one of its own. The screen star does all of her own decorating—inspired, she says, by her mother, a Scottish immigrant with a passion for home design. "She was always trying to put a house together with no money, sewing her own slipcovers and curtains, using whatever we had," she says. The actress constantly tweaks the New York brownstone she shares with her husband, director Bart Freundlich, and their two children; last summer, she moved up the kitchen a full floor. "My mother always said a house is never finished," Moore says. "That's what makes it interesting." BY INGRID ABRAMOVITCH

7. Reed Krakoff bag

6. BASKETS

Great to shop for when traveling. Some of my favorites are from the Amazon region of Brazil.

7. REED KRAKOFF BAGS

Beautiful, with room for everything I want to carry, including a pocket for my iPad and Logitech keyboard.

8. LOBEL MODERN

Even Lobel's shop is always my first stop when looking for a piece of furniture. I've been going there for 15 years.

9. PAAVO TYNELL LAMP

From Galerie Eric Philippe in Paris—a birthday and Christmas present to myself.

10. BOXWOOD

Gorgeous and evergreen.

11. NO. 6 STORE IN LITTLE ITALY

I wear their clogs and boots every day.

12. JAPANESE IRON TEAPOT

It's beautiful and round, and always keeps my green tea piping hot.
